The Chicago Police Department (CPD) takes allegations of misconduct by CPD members very seriously. The Bureau of Internal Affairs (BIA) and the Civilian Office of Police Accountability (COPA) investigate misconduct by members of the CPD. Allegations are investigated thoroughly, objectively, and in a timely manner.

COPA acts as a unified intake office and is responsible for issuing tracking numbers for complaints.

Who Can Make a Complaint?

Anyone who has a complaint against a CPD member may file a complaint. Individuals may submit a complaint regardless of their perceived identifiable group. Minors may file complaints. However, minors must be accompanied by a legal guardian during any interview.

Current law and police collective bargaining agreements significantly limit the investigation of anonymous complaints. Complainants are strongly encouraged to provide identifying information and participate in the investigative process, so a thorough and complete investigation can be conducted.

The Department uses interpreters to facilitate the complaint taking process.

How Can I Identify An Officer?

A Chicago Police Department member must identify themselves when asked, by providing:

- Name, Rank, and Star Number.

It's also helpful to note:

- The time, date, and location of the interaction with an officer,
- A detailed description of the incident,
- Any numbers displayed on police vehicles (e.g. License plate number)

What Happens After I File a Complaint?

Every complaint is tracked by a unique Log Number. Depending on the complaint, it may be investigated by COPA, BIA, or another investigative agency. Every complainant is informed by letter which agency is handling the complaint.

If BIA is assigned to investigate: BIA will send a letter with the investigator's name and contact information.

Complaints Investigated By BIA

City ordinance determines whether COPA or BIA will investigate your complaint. For further information, reference Municipal Code of Chicago, Chapter 2-78-120 Office and Chief Administrator—Powers and duties.

How Does BIA Investigate A Complaint?

After the Log Number is assigned, the investigator will:

- Mail an information contact letter,
- Interview the complainant,
- Obtain a Sworn Affidavit from the complainant,*
- Interview all witnesses,
- Gather evidence such as reports and video,
- Interview involved Department member, and
- At the conclusion of the investigation, a letter is sent to the complainant explaining the outcome.

The BIA can be contacted at (312) 745-6310, M–F, (07:00 am–11:59 pm).

A Sworn Affidavit Is No Longer Required

Effective 7-1-21, persons filing a misconduct complaint against a sworn police officer are no longer required to sign an affidavit to have their complaint investigated.

What Can You Expect?

The BIA recognizes that alleged misconduct undermines the CPD's relationship with the community it serves. When misconduct is reported, the goal of the BIA is to come to a resolution and correct any behavior that is contrary to the Department's Mission.

The BIA is committed to:

- Treating complainant(s) impartially and respectfully,
- Conducting thorough, objective, and timely investigations,
- Updating complainant(s) on the progress of the investigation, and
- Transparency.

Retaliation is Prohibited

The Department strictly prohibits its members from engaging in any form of retaliation, as defined by law under MCC 2-78-160. If after filing a complaint, any form of harassment or retaliation is experienced, immediately contact COPA.
